CLASSROOM BY CLASSROOM

Classroom Management For More Time To Teach

Secondary teachers have the hardest job in America. Among all the tasks that we juggle, two are paramount; curriculum and discipline. Neither is more important, nor can one be effective without the other. In collaboration with Center for Teacher Effectiveness (CTE), Sandra Shelton gives you Time To Teach, effective classroom discipline so that you can have more time to teach!

CENTER FOR TEACHER EFFECTIVENESS

CTE is rapidly becoming the leading provider of teacher education, training, and staff development in the USA and Canada. Its major area of concentration is redefining teaching and learning in schools and providing highly useful professional teacher and staff development.

Time To Teach® is well researched and proven in practice, and presented by outstanding subject matter experts like Sandra. Nick-named the "Tools for Tomorrow not just Theory For Thought" the learning emphasis is placed on highly practical training which can be implemented immediately when participants return to the classroom or to administrative duties. The immediate successes are seen as more teachers and administrators are freed from the "don't do - didja, didja" cycle of poor discipline that leaves kids frustrate and teachers little time to teach.

Sandra is one of those rare speakers who gets the message across and in an entertaining way. She presents at education conventions and to high school faculties for secondary educators everywhere. Participants begin each session with courteous giggles, move through more chuckles, and into side-splitting belly laughs as Sandra shares anecdotes, ideas, and most importantly, solutions to classroom and school-wide discipline.

Teachers and Administrators, this is for you! Teachers for an experience to better every day and Administrators, a chance to provide meaningful, practical professional growth for teachers.

The Ultimate winner is students who raise the bar on our future!
